

ENG 131 – Introduction to College Writing

Student-Friendly Course Overview

This course helps you build strong writing skills for college and beyond. We'll focus on different types of writing—analytical, persuasive, narrative, and professional— while learning how to organize ideas, research effectively, and express yourself clearly. You'll also practice revising, editing, and giving feedback to others. By the end of the course, you'll have a stronger writing voice and tools you can use in any field.

■ What You'll Learn:

- Understand and apply the 10 core concepts of writing.
- Write essays in analytical, persuasive, and narrative styles.
- Develop your own clear and confident writing voice.
- Do research, evaluate sources, and cite them correctly (MLA style).
- Adapt your writing for professional and digital contexts.
- Work collaboratively and give helpful peer feedback.
- Recognize the importance of academic integrity and ethical writing.

■ Course Expectations:

- Come prepared and participate in class discussions and workshops.
- Complete readings and assignments on time (late work may lose points).
- Use proper citations—plagiarism is not allowed.
- Stay engaged: participation counts toward your grade.
- Check email/Teams for updates and feedback from your instructor.

■ Grading Breakdown:

- Reflective Essays – 15%
- Analytical Essay – 15%
- Narrative Essay – 15%
- Annotated Bibliography – 10%
- Group Project – 15%
- Final Project – 20%
- Participation – 10%

This course is designed to help you succeed as a college writer. Take risks, stay curious, and don't be afraid to revise. Writing is a process—and progress comes with practice!